Ann Tabb, Junior At BGHS, Is Contest Winner

A Bowling Green High School junior won top honors here Friday night in the local Jaycees Voice of Democracy contest at Van Meter Auditorium.

Ann Tabb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Tabb, 1145 Nutwood Ave., won the annual contest, speaking on "Why Should I Speak for Democracy," over five other contestants who represented high schools in the county and College High.

The other contestants and their school were Mary Ruth Grise, College High; Celostine Tygrett, Alvaton; Lela Nell Madison, North Warren; Wilma Kay Stewart, Richardsville, and Betty Jo Page, Warren County.

Each of the contestants was awarded a certificate of merit in public speaking by Rep. William H. Natcher who addressed the group on Democracy.

County Judge J. David Francis, master of ceremonies, introduced Natcher.

Miss Tabb will receive her award—a table model radio—at a Jaycee dinner meeting Dec. 3. Her address also is to be recorded and sent to Louisville early in December where it will be entered in the Jaycee state public speaking contest.

The contestants were named in run-off speaking contests from the 10th, 11th and 12th grades at each of the schools.

Polly Elkin Begins Defense Of City Girls' Tennis Title

Last year's finalists will meet in the quarterfinals of the city girls' tennis tournament this week.

Defending Champion Polly Elkin goes against Pattye Thompson, who dropped a close match to the winner last summer, in the feature engagement of early play. Both drew byes through the first round.

Nine girls beat yesterday's entry deadline and seven of them byed into the quarterfinals. The only first-round match sends Charlotte Harwood against Talitha McGinley. The winner meets Stephanie Satterfield in the quarterfinals.

The other two quarterfinals send Mattie Stamper against Harriett Biggs and Belinda McGinley against Mary Ruth Grise.

Miss Betty Langley, the tournament director, said quarterfinals must be played by July 2 and semifinals by July 7.

The championship match is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. on July 9.

All matches are being played at Western's courts.

Pattye Thompson Tops Defending Champ In Girls' Net Tourney

Pattye Thompson knocked defending champion Polly Elkin out of the girls' city tennis championship in a marathon quarter-finals match Friday.

Miss Thompson, runner-up in last year's tournament, prevailed by scores of 11-9 and 8-6.

Mattie Stamper and Mary Ruth Grise joined Miss Thompson in the semifinals. Miss Stamper defeated Harriett Biggs, 6-4, 6-2, and Miss Grise won 2-6, 6-4, ~~forfeit~~ from Belinda McGinley.

Talitha McGinley tripped Charlotte Harwood, 6-3, 6-4, in a first-round match and is to meet Stephanie Satterfield in a quarterfinal match.

Pattye Thompson Captures Girls City Tennis Crown

Pattye Thompson, beaten finalist last year, won the Girls City Tennis Championship yesterday with a straight-sets conquest of Stephanie Satterfield.

Miss Thompson, much steadier and possessing a more forceful game, subdued the rookie Miss Satterfield, 6-0, 6-3.

Miss Thompson, who did not lose a set in the tournament, had defeated Mattie Stamper, 6-0, 6-1, in the semifinals.

Miss Satterfield got to the finals with a 6-2, 6-3 conquest of Mary Ruth Grise.

Miss Betty Langley, tournament director, presented trophies, donated by Garnett Sporting oGods.

Miss Thompson had lost to Polly Elkin in last year's marathon finals. But she stopped the defending champ in the quarterfinals this year and had few worries after that.

Miss Satterfield, somewhat of a surprise finalist, put up a stiff battle in the second set after failing to find the range earlier.

 Selection Played 2pt. Inv. No 8 - Bach
 Instrument PIANO

Officials will grade principal items for each selection by inserting A, B, C, D or E in the squares opposite the items. Mark plus or minus (+ or -) after the subdivisions which are noticeably good or noticeably poor. The absence of any mark indicates average performance.

Judges are urged to explain the meaning of the plus and minus signs in terms of the specific individual or organization to which the sheet applies, with suggestions for the correction of the faults indicated.

Comments should deal with fundamental principles rather than minor details.

GENERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

CONGRATULATIONS. You have been chosen from among many in your regional Speech Festival to represent your section of the state in this meeting. You are one of the selected group representing several thousand students from many of the better high schools in Kentucky. It is our wish that you acquit yourselves creditably and that your participation will be a great inspiration to you. The University of Kentucky is happy to have on the campus the high school boys and girls who are participating in the Speech League program, together with their coaches and chaperones. We hope most sincerely that your experiences here will be interesting, enjoyable, and valuable to you. Not all of you can be "superior," but you can have the satisfaction of having done your best and of receiving benefits that will be invaluable to you.

REGISTRATION. The Kentucky High School Speech Festival will be held on the University campus April 12-14, Monday through Wednesday.

Participants are asked to register at a desk in the Great Hall of the Student Union Building at least 30 minutes before the program is to begin. Students are also requested to be in the room assigned for each event 10 minutes before they are scheduled to appear. Programs will be given out at the registration desk.

INFORMATION. The program is in general charge of the Department of University Extension, assisted by other departments. The Extension offices are in the basement of Frazer Hall, the building immediately south of the Student Union Building. If you have any difficulties, call the Department of University Extension and ask your question of the one answering the phone. The number is 2-2200 if calling from the city; if calling from the campus exchange, call extension 2159 or 2221. Visitors are invited to make use of the public facilities of the Student Union Building while on the campus.

IMPORTANT, PLEASE NOTE. May we ask your cooperation in the following: Please do not enter or leave a room while an event is in session. Please do not talk to nor sit near a judge during an event.

ELIGIBILITY. The participants in this program are honor winners from the regional programs held in various sections of the state. The names of the participants should appear in this folder. If there is an error or omission in this program, however, it does not disqualify any speaker who has otherwise met requirements. Please report any errors at once to the Extension Department or any presiding officer.

JUDGES. Judges in the speech events will be qualified speech teachers, holding one or more degrees in the field. The judges for debate include several ex-debaters of colleges or high schools, among whom are University faculty members and students and some townspeople.

AWARDS. The Harry W. Schacter awards in Discussion will be presented at 2:30 on Wednesday afternoon in the Music Room of the Student Union Building.

Two circulating trophies are awarded annually in Debate to the winner and runner-up of the state contest. The Phil Cornette Debate trophy provided by the Lexington Herald-Leader is awarded the winner; the University Cup to the runner-up. Identical medals are given the four debaters who participate in the final debate. If a school participating in the final debate has more than two debaters who have participated in the state tournament, they may secure medals for these debaters at cost.

The debate trophies will be awarded immediately after the final debate, on Tuesday afternoon in the Music Room of the Student Union Building.

The individual trophy for Exemplary Conduct is awarded to the student who best demonstrates the ideal of conduct in debate. This trophy will be awarded on Monday evening.

WHY STUDY ENGLISH?

Taken from ^{Editorial} ~~an publication~~ by General Electric Corporation

If what Peter Drucker says is true, and we believe it is, you had better do something about your English.

"As soon as you move one step up from the bottom, your effectiveness depends on your ability to reach others through the spoken or written word. And the further away your job is from manual work, the larger the organization of which you are an employee, the more important it will be that you know how to convey your thoughts in writing or speaking. In the very large organizations, whether it is the government, the large business corporation, or the Army, this ability to express oneself is perhaps the most important of all the skills a man can possess."

It pleases us at General Electric to go on record as supporters of Mr. Drucker's statement.

The top engineer upstairs is on the telephone. He says to us: "Right before my eyes is a brief report made out by one of our young engineers. I have to guess what the fellow is driving at. I'm no English shark, but I find myself getting a little angry when I see four sentences tied together into one with commas. (He has 'principle' for 'principal', and he has also misspelled ~~accommodate and Cincinnati~~.) What if some of this fellow's bad sentences get into the hands of our customers?"

We sympathize, and we say somewhat lamely that it's up to him to suggest that the fellow hire a tutor.

The top engineer is wound up. "At the last meeting of our Association, representatives of all the major companies complained about the way their younger men were putting down their words - and futures - on paper. Can't someone tell us what to do?"

We reach for an answer.

"When boys and girls began avoiding mathematics like the plague," we remind him, "we began printing facts. It is now our duty and privilege to beat the drums for English! Our motives are partly selfish, because we want American business to succeed even more than it has in the past. But our motive is more than self-interest. We know because we rub shoulders with people, at work and in the community, that a solid background in English is prerequisite to happiness and well-being. Without a reasonably good command of English - as a means of communication - and without knowledge of what the best minds of all time have put into print, we are not educated for personal happiness, apart from the job, or for personal success in the exciting business of making a living." |

"But I thought all boys and girls took English in high school and college?"

"Yes, they have put in their time. Their teachers have spread the feast, but some of them haven't been very hungry. Perhaps they will listen to us. Their teachers can tell them a thousand times that English is important, but they will say, 'Teacher means well, but she's trying to sell us on the importance of her subject.' Perhaps when a manufacturer of turbines, generators, jet engines, lamps, room air coolers, toasters, refrigerators, and 200,000 other electrical products says English is of tremendous importance, they will listen. After all, English is almost as important as math in our business, isn't it?"

The engineer's answer is deliberately emphatic: "Change the word 'almost' to 'just', and, brother, you've said a mouthful! Tell them that English is important to them - and to us - because very soon their ability to read and to know and to remember what they have read, and to speak and to write well, will make all the difference, whether they and we or some other company of their career choice will succeed together." |

At one time or another, all of us try our hand at writing. Every day in your future you will be called upon to speak and write, and when you open your mouth, or write a letter or report, you will be advertising your progress and your potential worth.

Read

You will probably grant that General Electric knows a thing or two about its various specialties, but you may question whether our expertness extends to the English part of the education field. Let's get off the hook directly: your English teacher has probably forgotten more about the teaching of English than we will ever know. As a matter of fact, if someday your employer finds you wobbly in English, he will be critical of you, not some ling-suffering teacher or parent.

Look at sentences

Attitude makes all the difference!

If you are one of those "dese" and "Dose" guys, and if it "don't make no sense" to you that your school and your employer "wants" you to become a literate person, all the teaching skill and the modern facilities can't win you over.

Read

Did you ever hear of a mental block? It's a massive barrier in your mind, but like the Maginot Line, it can be penetrated.

That block may be mathematics or history or spelling or perhaps a feeling that no one likes you or something else.

Your mind may be blocked because you imagine all well-read, literate persons are precious, prissy characters who go around spouting Shakespeare. There may be a few of those people, but that is not Shakespeare's fault. We know that in a sense we become a part of what we read, and that what we call writing style is born from our unconscious attempt to imitate what we like.

Our business world needs young people whose minds are packed with facts, but with the boldness of imagination to release them in a form that is easy and pleasant to take.

As you move up the success ladder, what you write and what you say will determine in part your rate of climb. It is neither too early nor too late to become practiced in the art of communication; certainly not too late to accumulate background through reading experiences.

We pause and listen to the unceasing whine of a motor across the yard. In the distance we see three, green-gray columns of smoke rushing upward from three yellow brick chimneys. We see them as symbols of mechanical might, controlled by the will, the wit and the intelligence of earnest men. And these men, adventurers and pioneers of industry, can move ahead with their plans. Because their own thought processes have been built upon such logical disciplines as history and math and English!

What America Means to Me
 To me America means freedom.
 Freedom of speech, press, and religion, also the right to govern ourselves. When our forefathers fought for these freedoms, many of them died. But there were enough left to carry on the spirit of democracy through the years. To me America means, "the home of the brave and the land of the free."

America to me means a fight long and hard, but a fight that was won. It means a fight for independence, the long hard fight of the pioneers to conquer the wilderness, also the long hard fight of the new nation to get on its feet in the ways it believed were right, ways that it believed were right.

enough to fight for

To me America means equal rights for all people. In our country every person is supposed to have equal rights. Although today a lot of that equality is disappearing America will, always stand for equal rights for all people.

America today does not have the direct effects of a war to mar the beauty of its countryside. This is something that so many countries of the world have. America today to me is the most beautiful country in all the world. I don't think anything could be more beautiful to me, than America in the spring with the trees and flowers all just bursting with anticipation to start a new season, and

America in ^{the} summer is truly beautiful with all the bright colored birds and flowers, and America in the fall is to me the beautiful red and gold leaves mixed in with the first cool days and the smell of burning leaves, America in the winter with snow and the children running, sliding, laughing and just being happy is to me very beautiful. I have never been in any other country but I don't think that another country could be more beautiful to me than America.

To me America means the pride that comes into my heart whenever I hear the national anthem or America the Beautiful. And whenever I hear them I feel a renewal of the hope that our country will never cease to have

5 Steps for Democracy

Democracy has been defined as a form of government in which the supreme power is vested in the people and exercised by them or by their elected agents under a free electoral system. This is a good definition isn't it? But it seems so cold and unfeeling when we think of all our democracy has stood for, strength, idealism and kind for. We know, our voice on justice, called for this kind, stood for freedom. But when our constitution was written it was not only for freedom but "in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, promote the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Our democracy has not been a government of eternal peace and calmness. It has been a government of peace and problems, some of which have been and are important, others less so. But they all have a place in our democracy. We have had the problem of making America intelligent, of having good schools both rural and city.

The problem of raising American standards - connected with this we have had the problem of making environment favorable for good living and of promoting good relations among races.

We have had the great problem of making religion effective in our American way of life.

The ever increasing problem of crime and the problem of race relations.

Of giving the home its proper place, because of the "3 institutions that mainly influence our lives" - the home, the school and the church - the home is the place where most things - good or bad - begin.

There has been the problem of assuring industrial peace, which has so greatly demanded our attention in the last few years.

There has been the great problem of making our government efficient, of having sound organization, good legislation and efficient administration.

We have had the never ending problem of international good-will and cooperation. We want good-will, yes, but we are not and will not be pushed into something we do not believe in, just to keep peace.

intelligent, of having good schools both rural and city. The problem of raising American standards. Connected with this we have had the problems of making environment favorable for good living, and promoting good relations among men. We have had the great problem of making religion effective in our American way of life. The problem of the America of tomorrow is one which we don't think about nearly enough. Every thing that is done today influences our America of tomorrow whether it be good or bad.

The only way that these problems have been met may be met and solved is for all of us both young and old to constantly be watching and working so that our democratic way of living may be made better and good more fully.

It has been said that the only nations that have no problems are dead ones. To speak of the problems of American democracy is to suggest that our country is alive and trying to accomplish something.

Our democracy is a people, a history of failures, of problems and of glorious victories. Yes, we have a glorious history and we have a glorious today and we want and need and will a glorious tomorrow.

If I am to speak for democracy I must not only speak in the sense of talking I must live and be democracy. If I am to live and be democracy I must speak for it so that all may know of it. So that we may have a

College High School
Bowling Green, Kentucky

Dear Miss Gaise:

Mr. George L. Williams, head of our Drama and Speech Department, participated as a judge in the recent Kentucky High School Speech Festival. He has passed on to our office your name as one of the students who did very well in the group which he judged.

Mr. Williams is interested in the possibility of your coming to Transylvania College. In order that you may know something about our program we are enclosing in this letter a brochure and a pre-paid reply card which you may use in requesting additional information and material.

We trust that you will seriously consider our college for enrollment and that we shall hear from you soon.

Cordially yours,

TRANSYLVANIA COLLEGE — LEARNING FOR LIVING — SINCE 1780

FELLOWSHIP

Extra-curricular activities and social functions are encouraged at Transylvania. The famous Transylvania College a Cappella Choir is open to all students by tryout, no matter what their major interest, as is the band, drama and speech activities, the intramural athletic program, and intercollegiate sports.

The college believes that mental health, spiritual health, physical health and social health are interdependent and thus experiences are provided in all these fields.

Organizations are available to suit every taste: The International Relations Club, the Future Teachers of America, the Student Christian Association, various social sororities and fraternities, to name a few. In addition, there are the Playmakers and Phi Beta, honorary music and speech group.

Transylvania is a friendly college, and impromptu groups may be found nearly any time studying or playing in the Student Center or the dormitory recreation rooms.

Individual requirements, the large course plan, and an extensive academic counselling system characterize Transylvania's unique educational program. Each student has a course of study carefully tailored to fit his needs. Entire emphasis is upon the liberal arts.

The program of general education at Transylvania has been praised by educational leaders throughout the country. The college believes that to be successful in any chosen vocation the individual must have a broad background which will enable him to converse with and understand his fellow man, both at home and throughout the world. On this solid basis will rest the specific professional or vocational skills which he may acquire at Transylvania, in graduate school, or on the job.

OPPORTUNITY

Transylvania believes that the future of the world depends on enlightened and sympathetic leaders. It is the challenge to the youth of today to avoid paralyzing provincialism and to face the future unafraid. Great opportunity awaits those who dare to be uncommon in the age of the "common man."

Transylvania College has been in the vanguard of the liberal arts tradition since its founding. It has grown up with, and has been instrumental in the development of, the entire Middle West.

Transylvania's library includes historic documents, rare volumes purchased in England and France in the early 1800's, even the first books donated to the school in 1873. Much of the scientific and teaching equipment of this period is still preserved, and will be on display in the handsome new library building.

John Adams and George Washington were among the early contributors to Transylvania. George Rogers Clark, Isaac Shelby, Christopher Greenup, Thomas Marshall, David Rice, Caleb Wallace, were among the first trustees of the institution. Henry Clay was a professor of law at Transylvania from 1805 to 1807 and was thereafter a trustee until his death in 1852. Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, was educated at Transylvania, as was Cassius Clay, the great abolitionist. During the Civil War the school's academic work was wholly disrupted by the conflict of loyalties which drew its students into service, either of the North or South. "Old Morrison," classic Greek Revival administration building, and the Medical College were used as hospitals alternately by troops of the North and South. The latter was burned, but Morrison, dedicated in 1833, still stands as a monument to Henry Clay, Col. James Morrison, and the architect, Gideon Shryock.

TRADITION

Transylvania College is located in the heart of the famous Kentucky Bluegrass. History of the school is the history of the state and region. Transylvania men went with George Rogers Clark to the Northwest Territory, and to Texas with Transylvanian Stephen F. Austin.

The College is located in the historic part of Old Lexington. Surrounding the original campus, now a park across Third Street from Morrison, are the homes of such notables as General John Hunt Morgan, Benjamin Gratz and General Thomas Bodley, all built by outstanding architects of their day. (Rebecca Gratz is said to be the inspiration for the Rebecca of Ivanhoe.)

In the park still stands the brick cottage erected as a kitchen for the main building of the college, which burned in 1829. In the early part of this century James Lane Allen, a Transylvania graduate, taught English here, and a fountain in his memory stands nearby.

Closely grouped around Lexington are the beautiful park-like horse farms, with their green fields and white fences. At the edge of the present city is the Bryan Station Spring, scene of a famous early skirmish with the Indians. Nearby is Boonesboro, Daniel Boone's town, and in the other direction is Harrodsburg, with its reconstruction of historic Fort Harrod. Open to the public in Lexington is "Ashland," home of Henry Clay, and the old Lexington Cemetery, dominated by the monument to Clay.

Lexington is served by a splendid airport, and the city is easily reached by air, rail or automobile.

Record 22 In Girls' Meet

A record filed of 22 today takes aim at the City Girls' Tennis Championship.

It probably is the largest group of girls to compete in any sport here since high school basketball for them was abandoned more than 20 years ago.

Because of late entry the defending champion, Miss Pattye Thompson, fell into an unseeded slot.

Ranked No. 1 is Miss Joan Ditto. Miss Patti Peete is seeded second.

Here are the upper-bracket pairings:

Joan Ditto vs Bye; Martha Ann Stagg vs Bye; Pat Gant vs Shirley Irish; Lucy Schow vs Bye; Emma Jean Branstetter vs Sandra Harrah; Nancy Sosh vs Bye; Linda Bryant vs Bye; Nelsie Deloteus vs Bye.

Lower bracket pairings:

Patti Peete vs Kay Hild; Georgeann Walker vs Bye; Martha Sue Fuqua vs Bye; Rachel Williams vs Dorothy Dukes; Suella Sledge vs Pattye Thompson; Cheryl Rose vs Mauvette Flowers; Nell Dalton vs Bye; Mary Ruth Grise vs Bye.

The tournament director, Miss Betty Langley, said the first round must be completed on or before tomorrow, the second round by June 8, quarterfinals by June 12 and semifinals by June 15.

The championship match is scheduled for June 17.

All matches are to be played at Western's courts.

Favorites Win In Girls' Tennis Tournament

Play in the City Girls' Tennis Tournament had reached the quarterfinal round today and a major upset has yet to be recorded.

Defending champion Pattye Thompson, top-seeded Joan Ditto and second-ranked Patti Peete were among the eight survivors of the original field of 22.

Here are the scores for the round of 16:

Joan Ditto def. Martha Ann Stagg, 7-5; Lucy Schow def. Shirley Irish, 7-5; Sandy Harrah def. Nancy Sosh, 6-4; Linda Bryant def. Nelsie Deloteus, 6-1.

Patti Peete def. Georgeann Walker, 6-4; Martha Sue Fuqua def. Nancy Williams, 7-5; Pattye Thompson won by default from Cheryl Rose; Mary Ruth Grise def. Nell Dalton, 6-1.
